Privacy Policy

Patientmeetings.com aims to protect your privacy. We collect information from you as follows:

- When you visit patientmeetings.com our server automatically logs your IP address (the unique address which identifies your computer on the internet). We use IP addresses to help us understand the volume of traffic to the site, and to collect broad demographic information for aggregate use. We do not link IP addresses to personally identifiable information.

  - We may from time to time ask you to supply personal details such as your name and email address when completing forms on the site or submitting feedback or questions to us. This is to allow us to verify that a user is genuine and to reduce spam. This information will not be provided to any 3rd parties. If you are unwilling to provide the information you should not complete forms, requests or submissions.

- When linking from patientmeetings.com to a Partner site, an embedded tracking link will tell the Partner that you came from p.com. This information allows Partners to track the origin of any enquiry they might receive. You should visit the Privacy Policies of our Partners to better understand how they use information once you are on their site.

  - Any information you provide with our Partners because of dialogue with them is subject to their Privacy Policy not ours.

Your Privacy

We may use third-party advertising companies to serve ads when you visit our Website. These companies may use information (not including your name, address email address or telephone number) about your visits to this and other Web sites in order to provide advertisements about goods and services of interest to you. If you would like more information about this practice and to know your choices about not having this information used by these companies, go to www.networkadvertising.org

If you have any queries or comments about our Privacy Policy, please contact us at, info@patientmeetings.com